Camp Hope

Camp Hope provides a safe, inclusive, and enriching summer camp experience for foster, adoptive, and special needs children ages 4-12. We serve children who are otherwise unable to participate in camp due to intensive behavioral needs, mental health diagnoses, and significant trauma.

Served 35 Children

Held 5 days/week over 6 weeks

Reclaimed Hope Initiative (RHI) uses input from campers and families to inform our program strategies. We distribute pre- and post- camp surveys to assess each camper's social and behavioral development, child and parent satisfaction, and safety of camp programs. We also solicit feedback on what sorts of activities participants would like to see more of. 2021 post-camp surveys indicated that 100% of our 35 camp families were extremely satisfied with camp safety protocols, the overall experience for their child, staff and counselors, and the communication between camp staff and families. 100% of camp families stated they would enroll their child in camp again and would recommend it to a friend with a child with similar needs. In addition to surveys, we also use face-to-face interviews, informal conversations, and onsite reviews from local professionals and program leaders to gauge the quality and effectiveness of camp activities. RHI staff also draw from lived experience caring for children with complex needs to inform our services. RHI maintains relationships with Charlottesville and Albemarle DSS, local foster care agencies, Region Ten

Community Services Board, schools, and local therapy providers to connect to foster, adoptive, and special needs families in our community and collect input on how we can best meet their needs. We formed a scholarship program in 2021 based on input from local service providers as well as families who expressed a need for camp to be more accessible to a wider range of families. We were able to host 7 low-income families on a sliding scale scholarship fee (based on income and family size) in 2021.

RHI plans to survey both youth campers (when possible) and their parents and/or caregivers pre- and post- camp to evaluate each child's improvement in the following domains: (1) emotional regulation, (2) coping skills, (3) communication, and (4) participation. RHI will have lead camp staff rate individual campers on these four skill areas every day of camp so that we can gauge how each child progresses. Camp staff will rate improvement from a scale of 0-4, based on a percentage scale (0-100%). Our baseline goal for measured improvement is 75%. In 2021, staff surveys indicated that 90% of campers made improvements in the identified skill areas.

Thrive

Through the Thrive program, Reclaimed Hope Initiative (RHI) ensures parents and caregivers of foster, adoptive, and special needs children have support and respite so they can better care for themselves and their families. RHI hosts a twice monthly parent and caregiver support group, with on-site childcare provided by professionals qualified to care for children with complex care needs. RHI also provides skilled in-home respite care to Thrive families experiencing hardship, such as illness, job loss, or other crisis, so they can retain skilled, reliable, trusted care for their children with complex care needs. In addition to parents reporting that Thrive helped them better take care of their own needs, as well as that of their children, the lasting impact of Thrive is helping families stay together through hardship. As one family described, Thrive "provides connection to other [foster, adoptive, and special needs]families who understand our reality...a place where people understand the unique joys and victories our family has as well."

Served 65 foster, adoptive, and special needs families through the Thrive program, which provides twice-monthly parent and caregiver support groups, in-home respite care, monthly respite nights for children, and referral services.

RHI surveys Thrive participants annually. Among parents and caregivers who attended at least half of support groups held in 2021:

100% said the Thrive program improved feelings of isolation.

73% said participation reduced their stress.

93% said group helped them have greater self-esteem.

90% said Thrive helped them better manage their personal needs.

In addition to helping parents better care for themselves, Thrive also helped parents care for their families. Among those who regularly attended weekly support groups in 2021:

70% said the Thrive program improved their confidence in caring for their child.

80% said they improved their skills to cope with challenges as a parent.

71% said they improved their ability to manage their child's complex care needs.

The lasting impact of Thrive is helping families stay together through hardship. One family shared that Thrive "provides connection to other [foster, adoptive, and special needs] families who understand our reality...it isn't all sad, hard stuff; often we need a place where people understand the unique joys and victories our family has as well. Thrive has been great for us to connect to parents who 'get it,' a place where we can be real and have our stories witnessed in a community, as well as give our child safe access to a fun space with peers who have some shared experiences; a place where she isn't 'the odd one out.'"

The Farm Retreat is a vision to establish a year round retreat center where foster, adoptive and special needs families can find rest and receive respite from the everyday challenges of life. The Farm will provide the opportunity for parents to unplug, reclaim who they are, and find healing, while simultaneously offering children the ability to be seen, heard, and cared for just as they are.

RAMP (Racial Advocacy and Mentorship Program)

RAMP offers same race mentorship to youth ages 8-18 who are transracially adopted or fostered by white parents, as well as an educational program for white parents adopting or fostering a child of color. The intended impact of this program is to implement community change on the educational requirements of white adoptive and foster parents to limit implicit bias and promote racial identity, while also giving children of color a positive racial mirror through their mentor to facilitate growth, education, and confidence.

Served 6 children/families in our pilot program

Mentor sessions are held weekly for 1.5-3 hours/session In terms of the mentorship portion of our program, research confirms the positive effects of quality youth mentoring, displaying more favorable health outcomes, decreased suicidal ideation, improved connectedness, decreased physical behavior, and a higher participation in higher education (Ahrens et al., 2008, King et al., 2018, Thompson and Vance, 2001).

Ultimately, mentoring enhances the personal growth and development, as well as social and economic opportunity for at-risk youth. These measures would be gauged by a three-tier survey, one completed by the child, one completed by the parent(s), and one completed by the mentor. These surveys would be done at pre-mentorship, 3 months, 6 months, 9 months, and 12 months to capture holistic change from multiple perspectives. The mentee survey would look at behavior, confidence, school participation/achievement, connectedness, sleep patterns, depression/mood, overall health, racial identity/worth and hobbies/passions. The mentor and parent survey would have similar categories, but would look at more qualitative data vs. quantitative. We would expect to see an improvement in all of these areas, with significance being seen in connectedness, overall health, confidence and racial identity/worth based on previous research. On the other side, the educational portion of RAMP will teach white foster/adoptive parents to 1) know terminology around race, 2) understand racial literacy, 3) have an awareness of their implicit bias around white supremacy, white privilege, and white fragility, 4) understand how to better cultivate and promote the racial and cultural identity of their children, 5) understand the grief and loss that accompany this transition, and 6) implement strategies on how to protect and prepare their child to live in a world where race has social implications. We will gauge the understanding of this content with our parents through surveys, quizzes and role-play. All parents will be given a pre-course survey to gauge their level of understanding around these topics and help us as educators target their greatest barriers. Each session will then include role-play and experiential education, in addition to a more didactic method of teaching, to allow a greater depth of understanding on each topic. Quizzes will be given at the end of each course to gauge level of understanding and continued areas of need. If parents do not pass with a score of 85% or higher, they will be required to repeat the session before moving on in the program.
